TORONTO TIDINGS

Mr. Roy Bowen has returned to his home in Cookstown after a week's very delightful visit here with his mother and twin sisters. His many friends were delighted to meet him again.

"Cleanliness" and "Righteousness" was the topic which Mr. Colin McLean thoroughly explained at our service on November 30th, admonishing all to be clean and in the right way in all things, and in return we would get untold blessings. With slow and beautiful motion, Mr. Fred Terrell rendered, "Safe in the Arms of Jesus," that sent a thrill of admiration and inspiration through the large assembly.

Mrs. John C. Zimmerman, of Palgrave, is, at this time of writing, spending a couple of weeks with relatives and friends in this city. She is always a welcome visitor.

When returning home after attending a church meeting recently, Miss Clara Sherk was run into by a motorist and knocked down, but beyond a few cuts and bruises and a ripped coat, escaped very serious injury, and we are pleased to say she is almost well again. The motorist, we understand, did everything for her and offers to pay her subsequent expenses.

That genial smiling chap, Mr. Harry Sloan, of Churchill, returned home on November 30th, after a most delightful visit to this city, where he has many friends.

Mrs. Arthur Bowen and her two clever young daughters, have gone into home life of their own accord at a comfortable residence on Hampton Avenue, to which they moved from Alexandria Boulevard on December 1st.

The service at our Bible Class on December 3d, was taken over by H. W. Roberts, who gave a clear cut analysis of the downfall of Saul and his subsequent elevation to a high place in God's favor under the name of Paul, and the great example he set for all Christians to emulate.

Mr. John T. Shilton was to have given a lecture in the Bridgen-Nasmith Hall on December 6th, in aid of the Home for Aged and Infirm Deaf, but found it necessary to postpone it until some time in the latter part of January.

The Women's Association held its regular monthly meeting on December 2d, and the election of officers for the ensuing term was to have been held then, but as Mrs. W. Watt, the president was absent, this matter was left in abeyance until a later date. Instead of this, arrangements were made for the annual disbursements of Christmas cheer and goods for the poor and needy.

As the Belleville school will go into recess for nearly two full weeks during the coming Yuletide, many parents here and elsewhere are in hopes of having their darlings home for that holiday stretch.

After coming in from Milton to attend the Byrne funeral, Mr. John R. Newell put in a few days here visiting relatives, and attended the Royal Winter Fair before returning home.

Mrs. John Buchan was greatly pleased with a visit from good mother, Mrs. Flora McKee, of Tiverton, who came down and spent over two weeks with the Buchans. No wonder, little Alex. Buchan, Jr., was full of childish glee, when his grandma was here, and then shed tears when she kissed him goodbye on November 28th.

It is well known that the late Mr. J. R. Byrne devoted much of his latter years towards spreading the Gospel everywhere among the deaf, and he himself worked hard towards their uplift, yet he modestly disclaimed any credit, and among his last words on his death bed were "I am sorry I have not done enough for Jesus."

The Brigden Literary Society held a very interesting meeting on November 29th, with story telling, debates and word contests. In the debate as to which was most convenient and helpful, train and auto traveling or aeroplane flying, the denizens of the skies won out, according to the decisions of Mesdames Nancy Moore and Mabel Wilson. The next meeting is scheduled for December 20th.

Mrs. Thomas Croan, of Kendall, has just returned home after a visit with friends and relatives in this city. She was formerly Miss Hattie Sayer, of Deseronto, Ont.

The Young People's Society now meets each alternate Monday evening or on the second and fourth Monday of each month, instead of weekly as formerly.

Our Board of Trustees met as usual on December 1st, with every member present, except Supt. W. R. Watt, who was then suffering from an attack of lumbago. Assistant Supt. F. E. Harris occupied the chair. After the opening prayer, on motion of Mr. G. W. Reeves, a one minute standing silence was observed in memory of the late J. R. Byrne. On motion of H. W. Roberts, a hearty welcome was accorded Bro. Reeves upon his return to the board after nearly seven years absence. Mr. James R. Tate was taken on as a probationer. The revenue of our church was still on the upward grade and the debt thereon going down. Four new members have joined our church lately. All the former convener cheerfully resigned their positions, but were again re-elected by acclamation, as follows: Church Clerk, Mr. A. Forrester; Church Treasurer, F. E. Harris; Platform Convener, H. W. Roberts; and General Manager, Frank Moore. A successor to the late Mr. J. R. Byrne as Country Mission Convener was left to our outside missions to vote upon. As the rules give only one position to one member, only three of the remaining members were willing to accept this portfolio, namely—George W. Reeves, Colin McLean and Fred Terrell. So our outsiders may choose one from these three.

The writer wishes the Editors every reader of the JOURNAL and all others the heartiest compliments of the season.

CALIFORNIA CALLS

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bradshaw, on finding their home on Carillo Road, too large for the convenience of themselves and family, have rented it for a handsome price and rented a more convenient home on San Pascual Street, in Santa Barbara.

Miss Margaret Bradshaw is loud in her acclaim of the good time she had down in various parts of the east this past summer, and is very grateful for her legions of friends and relatives down there for entertaining her so lavishly. In her long trip she virtually circled the entire United States from the Canadian boundary to the Gulf and ocean to ocean. She has now left her work in the bank to enter business college, where she is taking up the shorthand work. She is well-known and very highly esteemed in Santa Barbara.

Mrs. Thomas Bradshaw has the heartfelt sympathy of all in the sudden death of her brother, Mr. Joseph Garden, of Calgary, Alberta, recently, who left this life forever, after only two days illness. It was all the more trying on Mrs. Bradshaw for he died so far away and whom she could not reach in time.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Law, whose matrimonial tie was cut asunder, via the divorce channel, a year or so ago have both married again. Mrs. Law is now Mrs. James Swan, and they are living in Santa Barbara. Mr. Law and wife are living in San Diego, Mrs. Swan is already a grandmother, for a daughter was born last July to her eldest son and daughter-in-law. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lightfoot. This is Mrs. Swan's third matrimonial venture her first husband, the late Mr. William Lightfoot, having died in Toronto, Ont., many years ago.

The many former Canadians now living up this way greatly appreciate and eagerly scan the Canadian news that appears in a large cluster every week in the JOURNAL.

The Bradshaws of Santa Barbara, celebrated the American Thanksgiving Day by accepting an invitation to a big dinner, and then to a big party in the evening of November 27th. They sure had a swell time.

NIAGARA FALLS NEWS

Miss Helen A. Middleton spent the week-end of November 29th, with Miss Ethel Hoare in St. Catharines, and had a very fine time.

We understand that the Mission Board intends transferring its station for the Niagara Peninsula from St. Catharines to this city, where it was formerly located in the Canadian League building.

Owing to extensive repairs being made at the Canadian Shredded Wheat plant, the skilled operators were all given a week off to do as you please, and Miss Helen A. Middleton took the opportunity to put in the time with Mr. and Mrs. Leo. Coughlin in Buffalo, and thus spent the American Thanksgiving Day with them, and enjoyed a grand chicken dinner. They had all planned to go out to Kenmore, N. Y., for the day, but the weatherman was not in accord. A sister of Mr. Coughlin, from Philadelphia, was also a guest at the Coughlins.

LONDON LEAVES

On Saturday, November 21st, Mr. and Mrs. John Fisher accompanied by Mr. Charles A. Ryan, of Woodstock, motored out to Haysville to see Mr. Oliver Nahrang, who we regret, to say, was then lying very seriously ill.

Mrs. Ben Spindler is at present sojourning in Detroit, with relatives and friends. We wish her a pleasant time.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Fisher motored down to St. Thomas on November 22d, and gave the newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. George Bell, and other friends a smiling "How do ye do?" greeting.

A social was held at the Y. M. C. A. a short time ago, in aid of the Springfield Park picnic fund, which was arranged by Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Fishbein. Here a few new games were introduced, and in the spoon and potato game the first prizes went to Mrs. R. Pincombe, of Poplar Hill, and Mr. Charles A. Ryan, of Woodstock, respectively, while Miss Sophia Fishbein and Mr. Isaac Cornford came through as victors in the whist card game. Dainty refreshments were served and all report a fine time.

A Hallowe'en social was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Paul in St. Thomas on November 1st, and a good many turned up. The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion and the box ball and golf games were keenly contested and enjoyed. A pair of silk suspenders to Mr. Fred Gwater and a box of chocolates to Mrs. Edward Fishbein were given for highest points scored. Refreshments were then served before dispersing. Those from a distance were Mr. A. H. Cowan and daughter, Margaret, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fishbein, and two sons and Miss Sophia Fishbein, of London; Miss Nellie Patrick, of Dunsford; and Miss Sylvia Caswell, of Niagara Falls, now Mrs. George Bell, of St. Thomas.

Mr. George W. Reeves, of Toronto, spoke with much effect at our service here on Sunday, November 30th, and despite the unsavory weather, there was a very large turnout. All were so pleased to meet our genial George once more, after such a long absence. His subject was very interesting and well defined.

Over a score of our friends turned out to an enjoyable party at the Y. M. C. A., on November 29th, despite the inclement weather. The whole affair was arranged by Miss Sophia Fishbein. In the box ball game, Mrs. Eddie Fishbein and Mr. Edward Paul, of St. Thomas, carried away the prizes. A farce, "Powder and Lip-sticks," was staged by the Fishbein family. In order to fill up the evening Mr. A. H. Cowan obliged with a short essay on the mysteries of "Treasure Island." A good lunch was served to all. Mrs. Isaac Cornford won the drawing ticket prize.

HIS SUN HAS SET

Scarcely had the shock of Ontario recovered from the death following the lamented death of Mr. John R. Byrne in Toronto, when the Great Reaper again sounded his death knell and carried off another patriarch of our silent realm, and this time the melancholy news was flashed from Brantford announcing that our old friend Mr. Robert Sutton, of that city, had breathed his last in this discordant sphere at five o'clock on the morning of December 2d, at the Brantford General Hospital, in his seventy-second year. The deceased had been in somewhat failing health for many years past, yet bore all his sufferings cheerfully. He was formerly a pupil of the old Hamilton school. He always had a kind heart, and whether of means or not, always opened his home to the deaf. He was born in Hamilton, where he spent most of his boyhood days. On June 19th, 1901, Mr. Sutton was united in marriage to Miss Martha Leigh, who graduated from the Belleville school, back in the nineties. Their marriage took place at Port Arthur, Ont., and afterwards they came to live in Brantford, where they made their home for the past twenty-six years, at 210 William Street. The funeral was held at 2 P.M., on December 4th, with service at the house and interment in Greenwood Cemetery in Brantford. The service was conducted by Mr. Ord, of Hamilton, assisted by Miss Jean Brown, of Brantford, and Mr. Lamont Hamilton, as interpreter for the many deaf present. The funeral was very largely attended and the casket was covered with many and beautiful wreaths. The pallbearers were made up of the leading deaf men of Brantford—namely, Joshua A. Lloyd, Bamber Brown, James Goodbrand, Wilfrid Teague, Frank Baumgart and Harry Braven. Besides his widow, the deceased leaves four sisters, who are well known to many of the older deaf, and though not deaf themselves, are adept in our language. They are (Minnie) now Mrs. William Taylor, of Port Colborne; (Sadie) Mrs. Harvey Cole, Brantford; (Tusie) Mrs. George Penn, and (Ethel) Mrs. Charles Hall, both of Toronto. The Suttons were married twenty-nine years, but had no children. To the bereaved relatives we extend deepest sympathy. Mrs. Sutton's brother, Mr. Thomas Leigh, of Sault Ste Marie, Mich., was down to attend the funeral and on December 8th, he took Mrs. Sutton back with him to his home in Michigan.

GENERAL GLEANINGS

We understand that these two brothers, Arthur and Charlie Wilson, formerly of Toronto, are, at present, up in Minnesota, canvassing their wares.

Mrs. John A. Moynihan, of Waterloo, returned home on December 5th, after nearly two weeks' spent in Brantford assisting and comforting Mrs. Ross during the serious illness, and subsequent death, of her late husband. Though sorely afflicted herself, Mrs. Moynihan delights in helping and comforting those under heavy clouds of grief.

In renewing his subscription to the JOURNAL, Mr. Alton B. Dick, late of Renfrew, Ont., but now located in Sussex, N. B., says he is doing very well and loves to get all his home news through the JOURNAL. We wish Alton every success.

We just learn, as these items are being sent in, that our well-known and beloved friend, Mr. Oliver Nahrang, of Haysville, had passed into the great majority on December 21. Perhaps an obituary notice of his demise may appear in your next issue.

Mr. and Mrs. George Bell, of St. Thomas, were favored over a recent week-end by a visit from the latter's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harris, of St. Catharines.

HERBERT W. ROBERTS.

ST. LOUIS

December 4th, William Dalton, who has been in the Baptist Sanitarium for almost eight months with an incurable disease, went into the Great Beyond that day. The remains were taken to the Craig Undertaking Co., 4468 Washington Avenue, until it was time to ship them his parents' home, in Iron Hill, Tenn. Rev. Barclay Meador conducted the funeral, with Mrs. O. A. Schneider as interpreter. Miss Hartsook sang "Nearer, My God, to Thee," and Mrs. Pattee sang "Abide with Me." A good many of Mr. Dalton's friends were present, in spite of the inclement weather. The deaf at large sympathize with the bereaved family, consisting of wife and two daughters. Sunday, December 7th, a memorial tribute was given by Messrs. Rickors, Fry and Mrs. Blevins and Mrs. Stedeman, at the Christian Church.

The Gallaudet Club will have an open house December 25th, to all who care to make the trip, under auspices of the St. Louis Frat Division, No. 24. Those out of work or in distress will be remembered.

On New Year's Night, December 31st, at the Gallaudet Club, an extra good program will be engineered by Earl Grieser and his assistants. Paste that date in your hat, if you want to have a good time.

Sunday, December 6th, the Christian Church Silent Bearer had a wonderful evening, with the usual Bible lessons by Rev. Barclay Meador, and the usual interpreter, Mrs. O. A. Schneider. The songs were beautifully sung by Misses Siebke, Hedden, and Mrs. Summers. There was a good attendance. Rev. Victor Rambo, of India, gave a short talk about the country and showed us the instruments that he uses to remove cataracts in the eyes. After that, all adjourned to the auditorium where we had a splendid tableau on "Vision, Truth, Faith, Courage, Mercy, Renunciation, Endurance and Sacrifice of David Livingstone," who made an extensive exploration in Darkest Africa. The matter was read orally by Mrs. Clark Cox, for the hearing people, and our interpreter, for the deaf. We surely had a good time, as it was a purely educational affair. We regret many others were not present, because the notice was not given in ample time. The Silent Bearer will have their monthly social December 26th, with Mr. H. Summers as the leader. Sunday, December 28th, at 7 P.M., there will be an extra good pageant. We expect to have a full house, so it will be worth the trip.

Two weeks ago the Silent Bearer Matrons, consisting of Madames Blevins, Stafford, Sanderson and Stedeman, sang beautifully in the sign language, which was highly appreciated by those present.

The St. Joseph Catholic School for the Deaf will have a card party and movie on Sunday, December 21st. All those of other creeds are cordially invited.

As Christmas is drawing near, many of the deaf expect Santa Claus to remember them. Those who are looking for a gift are: Creamer, a good supply of chewing tobacco; Kolodny, a flourishing place for his pool tables; Chienk, some one to offer him a good price for his Ford sedan; Blackschlager, a box of good cigars from his relatives; Hunter, a new pack of playing cards; Haig, a steady job, as he has been on the idle list for some time; Brausetter, a stocking full of popcorn; F. Stockick, and Palicek, a new set of fishing lines and minnow buckets; Weber and Koebel, new auto accessories; Joell, a new fountain pen to help him in the Frat treasury accounts; Schaub, a new pair of house slippers, as he stays home most of the evenings. Most of the ladies of the Gallaudet Club want handkerchiefs and puffers.

December 7th, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Bancroft gave their daughter, Mabel, into marriage to Mr. Joe H. Pope, at the Niederinghaus Memorial M. E. Church in Granite City, Ill., in the presence of a large gathering of friends and sightseers. Mrs. O. A. Schneider was the interpreter. It was a pretty wedding, as the ceremony was conducted in the usual way without any trouble. After the ceremony, all adjourned to the church dining room, to tender congratulations and best wishes and partake of the bride's cake and the ice-cream. A good many St. Louisians made the trip and it was worth going, as all had a good time.

December 8th, Mr. and Mrs. William Bayne celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage, at the German House, 2345 Lafayette Avenue, engineered by their only son. A very large gathering of friends was present to shower them with best wishes and presents. May they enjoy many more happy years, and pass the golden anniversary.

Friday, December 5th, the St. Louis Frats met at their usual hall, Jefferson and Lafayette Avenues, to elect new officers for the ensuing year, which resulted as follows: President, C. Haig (re-elected); Ed. Miller, Vice-president; A. O. Steidemann, Secretary; Thos. F. Joell, re-elected Treasurer; H. Kierman, Director; Walter Toma, Trustee; H. P. Brausetter, Sergeant-at-Arms.

You can make the JOURNAL's editor happy for Christmas by sending in your renewal and a new subscriber. It is only two dollars a year and worth it, as it is full of news weekly. Messrs. Edora Harden and W. H. Schaub took advantage of the annual turkey, goose, duck and chicken raffle, near St. Charles, Mo., on the Sunday before Thanksgiving Day. Both brought home a small turkey to feed their families (we don't know whether they won the turkey or bought it.) They say it was not as good as last year, on account of the summer's drought.

Mr. Sam Beck has discarded his 1920 Ford for a 1928 Chevrolet, which has put him on some style, so he can make better time in going to work and get home more prompt than before.

The St. Thomas Mission (Episcopal), under the management of Rev.

A. O. Steidemann, will have their Bible Class at the Library at 13th and Olive Streets, December 21st. A good attendance is anticipated.

Rev. Charles Schubkegel, Lutheran Mission to the Deaf, will have his annual Christmas Tree at his home Christmas evening. He expects all his members to partake of the festival.

The Gallaudet Club had its annual mask ball at the club room December 6th, instead of having it at a hall and paying so much rent. A very large gathering was present and all had a good time. The lunch counter was sold out before the closing hour. Next time the ball committee will have to lay in a good extra supply of eats and drinks to keep the merry crowd in good humor.

Why is not your neighbor a subscriber to the JOURNAL? They may come across the name of their school-day chums. It is full of readable news which every deaf should read. The price is in harmony with your wallet, now is the time to get busy and send in your renewal, and send a year's subscription to one of your dear friends as a Christmas present. REXV.

SEATTLE

The Lutheran Ladies Aid's annual bazaar was a surprising success. Mrs. G. W. Gaertner, Aunt Pauline Gustin and Mrs. Claude Ziegler took care of the selling. Mrs. N. C. Garrison a d her fourteen-year-old junior high school son, Eddie, had charge of the fish pond. Mrs. W. S. Root was chairman of the refreshments, and her assistants were Mrs. John Adams, Mrs. J. T. Bodley, and Mrs. George Raisan. As usual, Rev. Gaertner's hearing friends gave assistance in purchasing, and they remarked about the beautiful embroidery and other needlework. W. S. Root has our thanks for the annual bundle of odds, which brought a neat sum. Everybody was happy that evening of November 22d.

Several from Tacoma were present. They were Mrs. Albert Lorenz, Mrs. Elsie Key, Mr. and Mrs. Hale, Mr. and Mrs. John Gerson, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Litchenberg and Mr. and Mrs. Hopping. Mr. and Mr. Ernest Frederickson, of Everett, were also there. J. C. Howard bade good-bye to all at the bazaar and took the 9:30 Great Northern for Michigan, to spend Thanksgiving with his daughter in Kalamazoo, and to meet his two small grandchildren, whom he had not seen. When Mr. Howard came to Seattle, he was an entire stranger to most of us, but now he has won our respect and admiration. Hope to see him back west. He says the United States is his backyard, having trodden every state with the exception of Florida.

Thanksgiving evening was celebrated at the Thursday social, with a short but snappy program. Rev. G. W. Gaertner, our pastor, delivered an interesting patriotic speech, and Mrs. Claire Reeves signed a Thanksgiving poem, and Mrs. Melba Burke signed "America" in her graceful way. It was the first time that Melba signed in Seattle, and we all were surprised how well she can do it. Mrs. Jack Bertram, who won the first prize last week, was the manager that evening. There were thirty-five, and ice-cream and cake were served at the close of the game of whist. Mrs. W. S. Root generously donated the fruit cake and A. H. Koberstein the ice-cream.

Miss Rowena Walling assisted in serving. Mrs. Claude won the first prize, and Miss Anna Kingdom, the booby.

W. S. Root had the New Year party committee at his home recently, preparing for a grand time. It will take place at the same location at the Legion Hall, on Tenth Avenue, N. E. and East 50th St. When the business was disposed of, Mrs. Root invited the men and their wives to a hearty luncheon.

November 5th, Miss Anna Kingdom gave a party at her home for the younger set. They played different games until a late hour, when fine refreshments were served. Fred Wise, of Kirkland, was present. An enjoyable time was had by all.

Mrs. Frank Rolph made up a housewarming party for Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Martin last Saturday. There were twenty-four, and bridge, "500," and other games were had. Miss Lailah Freese wrote down the most number of articles shown on the kitchen table in five minutes. The crowd presented Mr. and Mrs. Martin with a very pretty electric coffee percolator, an aquarium with a gold fish and a small statue. A long table was brought into the living and dining room, where all had a big feast on the lunch furnished by the friends. Frank Rolph must be a good chef, as he made the fine tasty potato salad, which was more than plenty. We all admired the Martin's home, especially as Ed. built it all by himself, without the aid of an architect, and he is not a carpenter, having learned the trade of printing. We are very proud of our former Vancouver students.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Brown gave a little card party at their home recently. The hostess served a dainty luncheon.

A few of the deaf were asked to the Root's home for a game of bridge. As usual they had a gay time and a lively luncheon.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bertram had for their guests Miss Sophia Mullin, Mr. and Mrs. Claire Reeves and John Dortero on Thanksgiving Day. They had a big turkey dinner.

Miss Lailah Freese and John Hood took their Thanksgiving dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Rex Oliver, in Beverly. The Oliver's have a bright little girl with a winning personality. She and the Martins' boy, Billy, an intelligent, good-looking three-year-old chap, were the center of attraction, as they played together at the Martins' housewarming party.

Frank Rolph prepared all by himself a turkey dinner at the Martin's dance, and those who partook the meal said it was the best they ever tasted. Mr. Rolph, who worked as he had cook for a company in Alaska the past several years, says he cooks better in small quantities.

Mrs. Rowena Walling spent her Thanksgiving with her people in Bremerton.

True Partridge was operated on successfully for a cleft palate. He had a plate attached to his teeth, but the teeth had to be extracted, so Dr. Dean, the famous specialist, attended to this operation. This is his twenty-ninth case. While Mr. Partridge was at the doctor's hospital for three days, he received many calls from his professional friends. He is an exceptionally fine man, always true and honest.

The Reeves received a letter from J. C. Howard the other day, stating that there was a position awaiting for him in Kalamazoo.

Mrs. N. C. Garrison's mother was suddenly called back to Ohio, her old home town, where she is tending her two maiden cousins, who have quite a bit put away for a rainy day. Mrs. Garrison enjoyed her mother's short visit before she went on her way.

Mrs. E. D. Talbert left Seattle November 29th, for her home in Gooding, Idaho, intending to stop in Vancouver Sunday for a visit with her old collegemate, Miss Northrup.

Mrs. Vesta Walker, an old student of the state school, was married to Frank Huntsucker, a hard-of-hearing man. They live on a ranch near Toledo, Ore.

Samuel R. Betts Dies

THE New York (Fanwood) Institution has suffered a great loss by the death of the president of its Board of Directors, who passed away after an illness of ten days of pneumonia on Saturday night, December 13th, at the age of seventy-eight years.

He was devoted to the educational interests of the deaf, and for over thirty years had been actively associated with the Board of Directors of the Fanwood School. He was elected a Director on May 17th, 1898, and from 1899 to 1920 was a member of the Committee of Instruction. From the year 1900 for the succeeding twenty years, he was a valued factor on the Law Committee. He became Secretary of the Board on May 21st, 1912, and gave seven years of careful service in that important office, when he retired to become First Vice-President, to which office he was elected in 1919. He assumed the presidency in 1921, giving faithful and unremitting attention to all the multifarious problems of the school, until released by death on the 13th of the present month.

He was a familiar figure at all the public meetings at the school, was kindly towards the pupils and friendly to all, and his frequent visits were free from that pomposity which often accompanies high office and acknowledged position of greatness. The sorrow for his death by the entire personnel of the Fanwood School is deep and sincere.

M. Henri Gaillard's Illness

LAST WEEK we mentioned the sudden and serious illness of M. Henri Gaillard, who with his lovely and intelligent wife recently attended the National Convention of the Deaf at Buffalo, and will be remembered by the thousands of deaf people present on that occasion. In European circles he is well known and admired, not only for his persistent work for the welfare of the deaf, but because of the wonderful acumen displayed in the cause of the children of silence. He was entirely broken down by overwork in their interests, and if the stoppage of his fruitful service is more than temporary, they will be the losers. Not since the days of Berthier and Dusuzeau have the deaf had such a champion. The deaf of the entire civilized world will hope and pray for his complete recovery.

WHAT THE DOCTOR SAYS

M. Gaillard's condition is serious, but there is reason to hope for his recovery.

It may not be entirely complete, but may be looked forward to; it is impossible to say how soon.

For the present, the danger of diabetic coma is checked, thanks to daily injections of insulin.

There remains the question of blood condition, which requires a long time to cure, and which often leaves behind permanent damage.

There is however an example which permits of hope.

It is that of Paster, who, stricken like M. Gaillard, afterwards recovered.

One remembers the jubilee when, at the Sorbonne, dragging his bad leg, he made his entrance supported on the arm of President Carnot, while Lister, the great English savant, came forward to greet and embrace him before the elite of the learned world gathered in the great amphitheatre for the event.

Let us hope that it will be the same with M. Gaillard, favored with the vigilant attentions and devotion lavished upon him by Mme. Marguerite Gaillard, and that by the token of Paster's example, we will see him once again directing the great work to which he is so completely devoted.

Portland, Oregon

Deaf man is hero and is presented a life-saving medal for rescuing a companion by the name of Walter Lloyd, nineteen, who tried to swim across a slough near St. Helens, Ore., on the Columbia River. The hero is George Ebersaul, nineteen years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Ebersaul, of Ridgefield, Wash., and the medal was obtained from the Portland Y.C.M.A. A public program was held by the Pioneer Grange at Ridgefield to witness the presentation. George lost his hearing eight or nine years ago, while suffering an attack of spinal meningitis. He is considered an expert lifeguard. He attended the deaf school at Salem for several years. Mr. Ebersaul, the youth's father, will make an effort to obtain a Carnegie medal for the boy's bravery. Young Lloyd, who was drowning at the time he was rescued, was also nineteen years old. Mr. Everet Harding, physical director at the Y. M. C. A., presented the hero with the medal.

Mr. Courtland Greenwald, one of Portland's popular young men, is at a local hospital, where he underwent a serious operation on Tuesday, December 2d. It was reported he was a very sick man, but at time of this writing was a little better. His many friends are hoping for his speedy recovery.

The Portland Division, No. 41, N. F. S. D., held its monthly meeting December 6th, during which new officers were elected for the coming year. Those chosen were: President, C. Lawrence; Vice-president, Charles Lynch; Secretary, H. P. Nelson; Treasurer, J. O. Reichle (re-elected); Director, Miles Sanders; Sergeant-at-Arms, Mr. Odell.

The S. F. L. Club held their election on Saturday night, December 6th. New officers chosen for 1931 are: President, Mrs. C. Walthers; Vice-president, Mrs. N. Peterson; Secretary, Mrs. W. Thierman; Treasurer, Mrs. C. H. Linde; Sergeant-at-Arms, Mrs. Geo. Kreidt.

About twelve deaf friends celebrated Thanksgiving, in honor of Mrs. C. Walthers, and Mr. Coulter, who met recently for the first time in nearly fifty years. They left Missouri when young kids, going to different parts of the country, thinking each other dead until last summer, when Mr. Walthers stole in upon Mr. Coulter at Longview, Wash. Two fine young turkeys, weighing eight pounds each, were consumed. The event was held at the Nelson home and the day was spent in playing bridge and chatting. Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Jack, of Chehalis, spent four days with the Nelsons, and as they both came out of their bedroom the last morning before leaving, they look sad. When asked why, they said "too bad it's the last day of such a fine time." The Jacks are always jolly people to meet. Mr. Coulter only stayed one day, and he regretted to have to leave, as he really enjoyed the crowd, saying he had had the best time ever. He is a pleasant talker.

Mrs. Bert Putman, of Salem, was a recent visitor in Portland, the guest of Mrs. Wm. Young. Her husband has been a patient in a local Salem hospital for a long time. They formerly lived in Portland.

Mr. Alfred Lowe, who came from Winnipeg, Can., a year ago, is now employed at the Meier & Franks Co. Mr. Lowe, whom the writer met a few months ago, surely is a very fine and well educated young man. He lived in Canada for seven years, coming from Scotland. Mr. Lowe is a lip-reader and can talk quite well. He is engaged to a young lady, Miss Anderson, also a deaf, who can talk orally. These two young people attended school together in Scotland.

The Capital City

In honor of the birthday of our friend and benefactor, Thomas Hopkins Gallaudet, the St. Barnabas' Mission held a meeting at the Parish House of St. Mark's Church, Wednesday evening, December 10th. Promptly at 8:30, the meeting opened. A prayer by Rev. H. Lorraine Tracy followed.

Section four of the By-Laws, "There shall be an annual meeting of the Mission in November," was discussed for an hour. It passed by a majority vote of the members that November be changed to the second Sunday in January.

The election of officers for 1931 was held and the results were: Mr. H. S. Edington, who was our first president when St. Barnabas' Mission was organized some years ago, was elected President; Mr. Edwin Isaacson, Vice-President; Miss Charlotte Croft, Secretary; and John Edelen, Treasurer, re-elected. All were elected by acclamation. Refreshments were served by the ladies of the Guild.

The hall was well crowded with young people of Washington, who witnessed the business routine.

All the ladies were dressed in latest colors, with hats to match. Miss Jones was in green; Mrs. Albert Rose in red; Miss Nellie Lake in pale blue; Mrs. Quimby, flowered georgette.

Robert Werdig brought a party with him. Mr. Edward Harmon, of Pittsburgh, a 1920 graduate of Gallaudet College, was also present. He was called back to the Government Printing office to resume work, which he left some years ago. His old chums were glad to have him back again. Little Bobbie Vernier was the only little boy at the meeting. He slept until refreshment time. The next meeting will be held January 14th, 1931.

The Supper and Bazaar of Calvary Baptist Mission, of December 11th was a success. Over three hundred attended, and the profit was over two hundred twenty-five dollars.

Prof. Drake was the chairman. His committee were Mrs. Drake, Mr. and Mrs. Alley, Mrs. Council and Miss Nanny.

The menu consisted of fresh ham, roast lamb, baked potato, peas, cold slaw, mint jelly, hot rolls, ice-cream, cake and coffee.

Mrs. Stewart was chairman of the bazaar, and her assistants were Mrs. Lowell, Mrs. Eller, Mrs. Harrison and Mrs. Duvall.

The following article was taken from one of the local papers:

SCHOOLS FOR DEAF UPHOLD IN REPORT
Defending the Columbia Institution for the Deaf on the grounds that the deaf are not in sufficient numbers in any one State to justify special State colleges, a problem of jurisdiction was nevertheless admitted in the annual report of the Secretary of the Interior yesterday.

Necessity for a modern building for library instruction, business teaching equipment and additional library funds were urged by the Secretary.

Our genial friend, Mr. Louis Lovett, surprised his local friends with his charming bride, Miss Alice Buchnatz, of Reading, Pa. They were married on Thanksgiving Day, and spent their honeymoon in Atlantic City. At present, they are residing in an apartment of the Maryland Courts. Mr. Lovett has a job at the government printing office, on the night shift. Congratulations.

The Washington deafdom is increasing with young and charming brides and gallant grooms since the last fall.

The local papers contained the likeness of Prof. Frederick H. Hughes, of Gallaudet College. They praised the professor as a keen student of the gridiron game, and he has earned the title of "Miracle Man" of District football.

Business in general is still very bad in this city, although all the deaf here are employed.

An entertainment in honor of the judiciary, with the president and Mrs. Hoover as hosts, was held Thursday evening, December 11th, to a distinguished company of some one thousand five hundred guests. Among them was Miss Charlotte Croft. She accompanied her brother, Colonel Croft, and his wife. Miss Croft wore orchid georgette.

The Washington Division, No. 46, N. F. S. D., is overjoyed to know Mr. I. H. Marchman is still alive and is slugging on ads at the Atlanta Journal. He was their first president and was one of the eight charter members. The Ladies' Guild of St. Barnabas' Mission will hold their annual election of officers at the home of Mrs. H. L. Tracy, Tuesday evening, January 6th, instead of at the home of Mrs. Wood as reported.

Bartholomew Cecil Moore was baptized at the Calvary Baptist Church, November 30th. He has secured work in West Virginia on Uncle Sam's farm.

Mrs. H. Lorraine Tracy has gone to Richmond, Va., to spend the week-end visit with Mrs. M. B. Dalton and family.

Mr. George Schafer, of Baltimore, Md., was in town recently for a Conference of the International Bible Student Association, and before his departure for his home, he attended the services at the Calvary Baptist Mission. He is a graduate of Gallaudet College and is expert electrician at the Bethlehem Steel Works, Sparrow's Point near Baltimore.

Merry Christmas greetings to you all.

FANWOOD

SAMUEL ROSSITER BETTS

The Institution was plunged into sorrow on Sunday, when word came that Samuel R. Betts, the president of the Directorate of the Institution, had died on Saturday night, from pneumonia, at his residence in the city.

Mr. Betts was long connected with the school, being elected a director in 1898. And for over thirty years he served on various committees of the Board of Directors. In 1921 he was elected President of the Board, which office he held until his death. Mr. Betts was always a busy man, but he was devoted to the interests of the school and found time to give his helpful presence to the Institution whenever the occasion required. With his death coming less than a week before the annual Christmas party in the chapel, his personality will be all the more missed by the pupils and the household, who had come to accept the presence of the kindly, dignified gentleman with the silvery hair as much a necessary adjunct to the festival as Santa Claus himself.

A more comprehensive account of Mr. Betts' connections was published in the New York Times, which is reprinted below:—

Samuel Rossiter Betts, retired patent attorney and president of the New York Institution for Instruction of the Deaf and Dumb, died at 10 o'clock last night at his home, 270 Park Avenue, after an illness of ten days with pneumonia. He was in his seventy-seventh year in this city on November 5, 1854, the son of George F. and Ellen Porter Betts. He was educated at Yale University, from which he received his academic degree in 1875 and two years later received his law degree from Columbia University. He immediately entered law practice in this city and was for several years associated with former Ambassador James R. Sheffield in the firm of Betts, Sheffield & Betts. He retired from active practice about fifteen years ago.

Mr. Betts had served as a United States Commissioner for the Southern District of New York since 1877 and had held various other civil posts, including that of master in equity and examiner in the United States courts. He was a member of many organizations, including several legal societies, the American Geographical Society, the American Museum of Natural History, the New York Botanical Garden, the New York Zoological Society, the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Society of Colonial Wars, the Sons of Revolution, the Society of the War of 1812, the Society of Foreign Wars and the Military Order of the Loyal Legion. Among his clubs were the Century, Union, University and Yale.

Mr. Betts married in 1918 Mrs. Lillias H. Armstrong, of Minneapolis, who died in June, 1929. He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. T. Tison Wells and Mrs. John Addison Porter, of New Haven.

The funeral service was held at Grace Church, Broadway and Tenth Street, on Tuesday morning. The Institution was represented by Principal Gardner and Major Van Tassel, together with the cadet officers and a squad of cadets of the battalion in command of Captain Atenderfer. Most of the members of the Board of Directors were also present.

At eleven o'clock, those remaining at school assembled in the chapel, where Dr. Fox delivered an address on the life of Mr. Betts.

And for thirty days the Institution flag will fly at half-mast out of respect to the memory of our departed President.

The correspondent of this column wishes to apologize for not saying anything about the occasion in honor of the late Dr. Isaac Lewis Peet, a former principal of this school many years ago, which was held in the chapel, before the regular Fanwood Literary Association program given by the Junior High Class II, on Thursday evening, December 4th. Dr. Fox ascended the platform and gave an interesting talk on Dr. Peet's life, explaining what a lovable man he was, and the kind disposition he always showed towards the deaf. The entire audience stood up for a few moments in silence, to honor Isaac Lewis Peet's memory.

An interesting basketball game was played in the gymnasium of the school on Saturday afternoon, December 6th. The Fanwood seconds played against the Cardinals, of Yonkers, all of whom were young hearing boys. Our team easily defeated them by the score of 36 to 18. There was quite a crowd of spectators, both pupils and graduates, as well as several outsiders, thus crowding the gymnasium to full capacity. Mr. Lux, our Physical Director, was the referee, and Vladimir Mazur the time-keeper.

Felix Kowalewski had the excellent opportunity of witnessing the thrilling battle on the gridiron, between the teams of New York University and Colgate, at the Yankee Stadium. His ticket cost four dollars, and the money is to go to the unemployed fund of New York City. The weather that afternoon was just fine for football. The Colgate team won by the scant score of 7 to 6. Felix says it was some game.

Dr. Fox's nephew, a cadet at the Naval Academy, sent tickets for the Army-Navy game, at the Yankee Stadium, on December 13th. Dr. Fox and Mr. Beadell attended the game.

Florida Flashes

Richard Wesley Payne is safe from the clutches of law, now that he has left Florida, probably for good. It is hoped that the publication of his latest string of swindles will be a means of cautioning the unwary deaf to be on the lookout for him. According to a letter written to his friends in the northern part of Florida, Mr. Payne and his wife are visiting their relatives in Columbus, Ga., from which place they will shortly leave for Dallas, Texas, where their deaf uncle, William Payne, owns and lives on a large farm.

Robert C. Miller, of Shelby, N. C., is spending his first winter in the land of perpetual sunshine, choosing Tampa as his headquarters. He is a brother of Hugh G. Miller, who is the chief of the Bureau of Labor for the Deaf at Raleigh, N. C.

Anton Schroeder, of St. Paul, Minn., is visiting his sister, Mrs. Allan McKinnon, in Jacksonville, this winter. He was very ill at his Northern home, and when he recovered, he found the weather too cold to be comfortable, hence his coming to a warmer clime. Mr. Schroeder, who is an inventor and salesman, will probably spend some time in points farther south before returning to Minnesota.

Louis Eagle is in St. Louis, Mo., looking for a position as linotype operator. While there he is a guest of his brother. It is not known how he lost his job on the Sebring (Florida) American before he headed for the Middle West. Probably the discontinuance of publication or the consolidation of local papers brought about his misfortune.

Harold S. Holmes could not resist the urge to return to Florida, taking a recent passage for West Palm Beach, where he now manages a dry cleaning and tailoring shop. His wife is with him.

Mrs. H. S. Austin, of Tampa, returned to Frankfort, Ky., on November 17th, to take care of her baby. In the meantime Mr. Austin is staying with his father in Zephyr Hills, until business has picked up sufficiently for him to return to his trade of photo-engraving.

The Miami, (Fla.) News has the following to dwell on the cheerful disposition of three Buckeye boys: "They hear not, neither do they speak, yet of all the toilers who are busy in getting the Roney Plaza hotel in readiness for Thanksgiving opening, the most cheerful ones are five deaf-mutes. Two of them are brothers from Columbus, Ohio, Howard and Charles Leggett, both of whom are high school graduates and expect to enter the photo-engraving and printing business. The other boys are James Hooper of Dayton, Ohio, who recently broke his right hand, but is painting cabana furniture with his left hand; Jessie Gibson, of Knoxville, and James Belk, of Jefferson City, Tenn. During the busy season these boys work in the hotel kitchen. When asked what they had to be thankful for at this time, the answer was to have eyes to enjoy the tropical beauty of Miami Beach.

Who disputes the assertion that children of deaf parents are not bright? The following from a Buckeye paper is quoted in part: "Lucia Conkling, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy B. Conkling, wins all spelling matches put on in Darke County, as a contestant in the sixth grade. Being a proficient speller comes naturally, it would seem, as her father is an editor and as such is a good orthographer, and his daughter could not help being clever, too."

Mrs. Matilda Sonneborn, of Los Angeles, Cal., recently returned home, after spending three days in Cuba and three months in Florida. Mr. and Mrs. Bert C. Wortman recently spent a week-end in St. Cloud, visiting their old friends, Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Philpott. Though they lived in Tampa and St. Petersburg in the past, the Wortmans are taking up their residence with their daughter at Fort Pierce this winter.

William Burnett, a barber in Altoona, missed a religious service held in Gainesville on November 30th, by being late after the close of the meeting. Mr. Burnett is hard of hearing, but retains the power of speech and always mingles with the deaf in an effort to learn their language.

While in Leesburg, the writer had the good fortune to meet L. E. Egle, father of Miss Marjorie, whose marriage to S. C. Boggs was solemnized at that time. Mr. Egle, in partnership with his son-in-law, J. E. Pegram, is conducting the Leesburg Business College.

Owing to the fact that the shop in which he was employed was sold out, B. F. Mills, a tonsorial artist, whose residence is in Leesburg, has secured work in a citrus fruit packing house. He is married and has a wife and two children. They obtained their education at the Georgia school. It may be said of Mr. Mills' regular occupation that the supply is greater than the demand, hence his employment along other lines.

David Tillinghast, now in the eighty-ninth year of his birth, has taken an annual pilgrimage to St.

Petersburg, where he is living with his daughter. He is believed to be the oldest alumnus of the Fanwood school. During the summer season he visited his relatives in South Carolina.

The deaf of Gainesville are enjoying the class work of Sunday school. At present they meet at the homes of the members, but plans are under way for their removal to the Baptist church, where great spiritual things are in store for them. Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Kelly are leaders in the religious movement.

Miss Vina Smith, of Lake Bluffs, Ill., has returned to St. Cloud for the third winter season and has again taken up her residence with Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Philpott. Miss Smith formerly held the position of deaconess in the Methodist conference and later taught in the several schools for the deaf until her retirement in 1928.

NEW YORK

News items for this column should be sent direct to the DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL, Station M, New York.

A few words of information in a letter or postal card is sufficient. We will do the rest.

BROOKLYN GUILD OF DEAF-MUTES.

The fair now being over and accounts adjusted and straightened out, Brooklyn Guild feels a just pride in their accomplishment in having cleared approximately $275. A gift of $75 was made to the Church of the Messiah, leaving a net after all expenses of approximately $200. This is to be compared to a miracle as the fair was held during the worst depression we have had.

Too much credit cannot be given to the committees who put their every effort into the work. Led by Mrs. E. Schnakenberg, they went the limit in unselfish sacrifices for the work. They were: Mrs. E. Schnakenberg, president of the Guild, Mrs. Liebsohn, Gass, Fetscher, Theis, Fitzpatrick, McLaren, Lounsbury and Kansridde, Misses Anderson, Williams and Dennis; Mr. Mayer, Maier, Fetscher, Fitzpatrick, McLaren, Poorman, Ecka, Liebsohn, Engelhardt and others.

The suppers served went over the top grand and were cleaned to the last crumb. Prices were low and goods were worth often much more than was received for them.

The committee thanks all who made donations and contributions. Mrs. Kansridde's daughter as an auctioneer was a super-feature, her "Go-Getter" salesmanship was hard on the purse of the bidders. Mr. John Maier, as a crockery juggler in his regular dishwashing act, spun them dry as quick as a wink. His coffee as usual was "good to the last drop."

Thanksgiving was made happy for ten families who were victims of the unfortunate conditions of the depression. Baskets, with food to the amount of $4.85, were sent to each by the Guild.

Plans are under way for the Christmas Festival and an entertainment of religious character for Lent.

The elections of the Guild were held December 4th, and resulted in the retaining in office of all those who led the guild during the year just passed, and the majorities were impressive in their indicating the confidence and esteem of the members for their leaders. The officers are: Mrs. E. Schnakenberg, President; Mr. Robert Anderson, Treasurer; Miss Gladys Williams, Secretary.

H. A. D.

Mr. Isaac B. Gardner, Principal of "Fanwood," was at his best on Friday evening, December 5th, when he delivered the first of a series of lectures under the auspices of the H. A. D. His subject, "The Power of Personality in the Scheme of Life," held the rapt attention of the large audience, which expressed its appreciation by rounds of applause.

Last Friday, December 12th, Rabbi Nash lectured on "The Quest of an Ideal," which was interpreted in signs by Mr. Marcus L. Kenner.

This Friday evening, December 19th, the speaker will be Dr. Thomas F. Fox, whose ability as a platform orator is well known. All are cordially welcome. Doors open at 8:30 P.M. The place: 210 West 91st Street.

A business meeting of the H. A. D. will be held this Sunday afternoon, December 21st, at 2:30 P.M. Election of officers for 1931, and other matters of importance will be discussed. In the evening, the Fanwood Religious Class will give a "Hanukkah" play, to be followed by movies.

On Wednesday evening, December 31st, the H. A. D. will suspend all regular classes and hold a "New Year's Celebration" instead. The fun starts at 8 P.M., and will continue far into midnight. There will be a fine film fare, music, dancing, eats, prizes, etc. All for the small sum of fifty cents, admission at door, to members only. Non-members by invitation.

On Sunday, December 14th, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Byck and Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Vogel, of Brighton Beach, N. Y., called on Miss Ethel Collins, of Barneget, N. J., having stopped at Lakewood and the Naval Air Station at Lakehurst, on the way.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Renner entertained with a card party Saturday evening, in honor of Mr. Charles J. Le Clercq, of San Francisco, Cal. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Stern, Mr. and Mrs. O. Loew, Mr. and Mrs. C. Schatzkin, Mr. and Mrs. E. Rappolt, Mrs. J. H. McCluskey, Mrs. A. C. Brown, Mrs. G. Kent and Miss Alice Judge. Three tables of "500" were in session, the prizes going to Mrs. Schatzkin, Mrs. Kent and Miss Judge, with Mrs. Stern getting the booby. On the men's side, Mr. Stern came out ahead, Mr. Schatzkin and Mr. Rappolt following. Mr. Rappolt also carried off the special prize for highest bid, which Mr. Le Clercq apparently had cinched all evening until the very last game.

The movie show at the Union League Hall, on Saturday evening, December 13th, 1930, was one of the best given by the Literary Committee of the Deaf-Mutes' Union League, but it was the smallest in attendance, as the Deaf-Mutes' Union League basketball team had to play on the same date.

The movie at the Union League Hall began at 9 o'clock, and was not concluded till half-past eleven. The original pictures of "Showboat," which had a big run at Broadway theatres at fancy prices were shown, and all who were there declared it was a pity that so many missed such a fine show.

Mrs. Max M. Lubin declined in clear signs "Suwanee River."

Then came a very laughable animated picture, which pleased all.

Samuel Fleischer, known at the Deaf-Mutes' Union League as Samuel Fleischer 2d, because there is another member by the same name, is a carpenter by trade, and though a No. 1 at that, was thrown out of work, owing to the depression of business, so he has started a business of his own. His card reads: Craftsman, carpenter, repairer, and his place of business is located at 790 Cauldwell Avenue, the Bronx.

Frank, the youngest son of Anthony Capelle resides with his wife in a suburb of Newark, N. J., in a six-room house, which has also a garage, where he keeps his car.

Last week fire broke out in his bedroom, just after he and his wife had retired. They were awakened by the barking of their dog, thus escaping sure death, as nearly the whole room was aflame. The other rooms in the house were undamaged. However, they lost all their wearing apparel, linen, etc. Pending the fixing up of the house, the couple are staying in the Bronx and Frank attends daily to his business in Newark, N. J., in his car, where he is vice-president and general manager of the General Reporting Service, Inc., of New Jersey, at 128 Market Street.

The Deaf-Mutes' Union League, captained by Benny Snafrank, minus three of their best players, who have quit playing the game, were just able to win by a point from the Henry Five, an East Side hearing team.

About two hundred were present. There was dancing before, between and after the games, and a very pleasant evening was had by all.

Mr. Moses W. Loew now resides at 12 Beekman Place, Radburn, Fair Lawn, N. J., and commutes daily to his place of business in this city, but every Saturday he generally calls at the club to meet the boys. His brother-in-law, Martin Moses, who lived with him and his family for twenty-five years, continues to reside in Manhattan.

On Sunday, December 14th, Mr. Moses Schnapp, in his car, had with him Misses Judy Solomon, Rosenblatt, Messrs. Max Hoffman and Charles Sussman. They went to Lakewood, N. J., and there they paid a visit to Miss Ida Frank, and found there Mr. and Mrs. Fogel and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Beck.

At the Stuyvesant High School gym, 15th Street and First Avenue, Manhattan, on Saturday evening, December 13th, 1930, there were two very close played basketball games.

The Brownsville Silents beat the Hebrew Association of the Deaf seniors by a score of 20 to 19.

Mrs. Joseph H. Toohey's father died, November 16th, after a long illness. He was 73 years old. She is mourning the loss of a good father. Interment was in Washington Cemetery.

CHICAGO

Under the generalship of Emanuel W. Mayer, the Chicago League of Hebrew Deaf made a gallant show with their sixth annual ball, December 6th, at Crystal Hall, 2705 W. North Avenue. The effect of conflicting parties and business meetings that occurred the same night was noticed in the depleted ranks in this affair. It is now more than ever convincing that a "500" party should be a permanent adjunct of every large dancing affair, if its is to be an assured success.

Nor did the Chicago League of Hebrew Deaf rest the following day, December 7th, Sunday. In fact, they made a whirlwind time of it. First, they treated themselves to a banquet to celebrate the sixth birthday of the club—a roast duck and chicken dinner at 1 p.m., with forty-seven members present, at Stelzer's restaurant, 2752 W. Division Street. After numerous speeches, brief and snappy, the members took taxis to Occidental Hall, where at 4:30 p.m. Mr. Charles Kemp delivered an informal talk, "How it Began"—a sober, intelligent history all fraternal organizations from the time they first took shape. Then, in spite of the dinner eaten four hours previously, they helped themselves to six o'clock refreshments, and plunged into the game of "500" and buncos, at 7:30 p.m. It was a most strenuous full day.

The writer is in receipt of a letter from Rev. J. W. Michaels, a Baptist missionary to the deaf in the South, being much pleased to notice his write-up of Rev. Michaels' lecture at the M. E. Mission for the Deaf and also a talk at the Pas-a-Pas Club hall, in the DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL of November 20th. The letter contains two cards, with brief history of the deaf on one side, and two of Rev. Michaels and Rev. A. O. Wilson, and also the finger alphabet on the other side. Rev. Michaels says he will be glad to give a lecture or talk, if the deaf Chicagoans desire him to come Chicago again.

Frank Milano, who was laid off from his work at a railroad locomotive shop last year, was unable to find another job, so he went to Omaha, Neb., to live with his parents. Thinking business was improving in point of contributing money to the relief of the needy, he came back to Chicago last week in hope of returning to his job, but his hope was disappointed. He may go back to Omaha in one or two weeks, if he is unable to find any job.

Two impostors were arrested December 5th, on a charge of playing deaf and dumb, and obtaining money under false pretenses. At the South Chicago court, they gave their names as William and (his brother) John Philpott, and were fined twenty-five dollars and costs, each.

William wore a metal sleeve over his left arm, giving the impression to customers that he had been wounded in the World War. Bystanders were responsible for their arrest, as their deafness would not fit them for war. Both brothers admitted the fraud when they were taken to the court.

Coach Neesam, in charge of the Wisconsin deaf school basketball squad, has been drilling his candidates on the fundamentals of the game, since the close of the football season. A game on this season's basketball schedule at the State school will take place Saturday evening, December 20th, between Neesam's squad and the Illinois deaf school, at the Wisconsin school gym. It is expected the contest will attract many of the alumni for the event.

The Missouri deaf school lost the football game at Olathe, Kan., Saturday afternoon to the Kansas deaf school, by a score of 13 to 0. The game was played in a sea of mud, as a result of the heavy rainfall, and the Missouri team's attack could not function under this condition. With the victory for the Kansas team went the championship of the Missouri Valley schools for deaf, as they have not lost to a deaf team this year.

Miss Roberta Groves has taken up some studies at the Chicago Training school for deaconesses, for her own improvement and advancement in general knowledge.

Norman Ginn appeared at the M. E. Mission last Sunday. His operation for appendicitis last month has brought him through all night.

A bomb exploded at the house of Sears-Roebuck, Mail Order Company, Saturday, December 6th, at night, alarming Pat, O'Brien's family, living three blocks from the house. The blast rocked dwelling some blocks around.

A three-day Christmas sale, in the nature of a bazaar, held at the Catholic deaf club house, December 5th, 6th, and 7th, seemed to be a success in point of attendance. Every booth was well filled with articles.

A report from Gilman, Iowa, follows:—

In honor of the birthdays of her husband, which fell on November 21st, and uncle, Nathan R. McGrew, a deaf man, which fell on November 22d, Mrs. Oscar McGrew gave a dinner to a group of relatives November 22d. As a splendid honor to her uncle, a ninety-candle bedecked cake occupied the center of the well-laden table.

LeRoy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Sharpnack, has gone for three days with a Boy Scouts' band, to a camp at Waukegan, Ill. He expects to go to some camp in Michigan after the holidays.

Mrs. W. Geywood, who was struck and injured by an automobile last month, was brought home from a hospital this week.

Louis Newman is under treatment for anemia in the Michael Reese Hospital.

There will be a Christmas tree and program at the M. E. Mission on Tuesday, December 23d, at 8 p.m.

NEWS OF THE COLORED DEAF

Deafdom is still on the increase, in spite of the nationwide idleness and business depression. The latest addition is Mr. Drane, of Toledo, O., who claims both the Kentucky and Ohio schools as his Alma Mater.

Shocking news reached the colored deaf recently from New York City, announcing the untimely death of Randall Hally, who was well known here.

Just as L. Bates and deaf friends were at the point of offering a reward for Mrs. Hattie Odom, she loomed up Thanksgiving Day, to the delight of her host of friends.

Thanksgiving passed most impressively, we gathered at Forty-third and Prairie around a table laden with a sumptuous repast, which would have appeased the appetite of those that gathered around the festive board of the immortal Lucullus.

Mr. Thomas Sommers claims the checker championship of the club for the colored deaf and challenges all comers.

Mr. L. Etheridge met with a rather painful accident recently. He tripped and fell down a flight of stairs, landing on his head, consequently received a badly bruised forehead and cheeks. Fortunately no bones were broken.

THIRD FLAT.

3348 W. Harrison St.

Wilksburg, Pa.

Mrs. Walter Bosworth mourns the passing of her brother, Samuel Carriher, who departed this life December 4, 1930. Mrs. Bosworth's many friends in Swisvale, Braddock and Wilksburg, sympathize with her in her loss. Through her father and brothers, the Carriher name is familiar in Edgewood and surrounding territory.

It is reported that Mrs. William Gibson's case at court has been cancelled. She was run down by a taxicab more than a year ago, and has not as yet fully recovered. It is presumed the case was settled out of court—in her favor, we hope.

November 27th, the Thanksgiving bird was thoroughly and satisfactorily dissected, figuratively, at the Wilksburg Club by that agreeable entertainer, Joseph Stevenson. As an entertainment it was quite a success. It consisted in having the visitors name the various parts of the bird, from descriptions given out by the conductor. The proceedings afforded much interest and amusement for all present.

The new game, "The Spider," introduced by that indefatigable Miss Irene Schifino, at the Wilksburg Club Saturday following Thanksgiving, was exceedingly interesting the jollity it afforded around two or three tables, where it was being played. It was something new and interesting, so a vote of thanks was due Miss Irene for introducing it.

Mr. and Mrs. George Lawther introduced a new member, George, junior, at the club recently, age some few months. Suffice to say he gives promise of being a member of importance to the Lawther tribe some future day. The club members showered the happy parents with their congratulations.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Grace, formerly of the Edgewood school, but now at the Trenton school, were back in Wilksburg Thanksgiving week. They got so homesick, they just had to come and eat their thank-you turkey on the old stamping ground. They looked fine, however, which would indicate they were getting along pleasantly in their work at Trenton. Returning they took Mrs. Rolshouse with them as far as Reading, where she will be with her sisters until time to return for Christmas here, where they will all be together again.

"It never rains but it pours," it seems. At last the Friend family may quote that appropriately. In our last letter we told about the mishap to the Friend party on the way to Johnstown, and how the whole party escaped serious injuries. The latest is this.

Dick came down from the farm in the old farm truck last week, and sent the dad home with nothing to think about.

When he got home he had a think all right. He found Jim with his arm in a sling; then he was enlightened Thanksgiving Day after the feast Jim went to the basement for a hod of coal while Ma washed the dishes. It appears on coming up he stepped off the stairs and fell over. Later he was found sitting in the dining room with an arm dangling at his side. Dick was called in and then they found that both bones in the forearm were broken. Here is where Dick proved his Boy Scout proficiency. He took the case in hand, straightened out the arm, pressed the bones together and applied make-shift splints and bandages. That done he hot-footed for the doctor who, when he came found first aids properly attended to and wanted to know who had done the job. Dick had to own up, then as the doctor had been a scout himself they fraternized. As this had all happened a week before he knew anything about it, Mr. Friend guessed it was all right, so did not worry. We hope it is the last of their evil happenings.

We have just received a communication from an "old" friend though he is still young, none other than David Allabough, son of the late lamented B. R. A. He informs us he is conducting a bus load of students from Champaign to New York for the holidays, and will change buses at Pittsburgh, but no time to visit old friends. We will try to get a peep at him during the few minutes he is in the city. He says he is still on the job, working his way through college. The photograph of himself he sent us presents a pleasant, upstanding sort of young man. We shall do our best to get in touch with him as he goes through.

OHIO

News items for this column can be sent to Miss B. M. Edgar, 56 Latta Avenue, Columbus, Ohio.

Last week I went to see the thrilling movie "The Big Trail" and, though it is a talkie, I greatly enjoyed it. It is truly hard to believe that the pioneers seeking the West suffered such experiences as "The Big Trail" shows. Of course, I lost some not being able to hear, but putting this and that together one can easily understand the story. Think what all those pioneers suffered for months to reach California, and now an airplane can cross the country in a very short time.

Mrs. Gibson, the mother of Mrs. Nina Burt, of Akron, celebrated her eighty-fifth birthday in November. Despite her age and rheumatism, she gets about with her daily tasks. She enjoys sewing carpet rags, piecing quilts, and takes an interest in everything. Aside from the Akron Beacon she reads the DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL and the American Deaf Citizen.

At Rev. Smielau's service in Columbus November 30th, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Israel Crossen was baptized, with Miss Ione Dix and Mr. I. Thompson acting as godparents. The boy, Robert Israel Crossen, is good looking and attractive in his ways.

Our school's carpenter, Mr. O. Bleness, met with an accident on his way home from his work recently. It seems as he was crossing a street with the red light, an auto driver (not a deaf one though) broke through the light and knocked the aged carpenter to the street. Aside from a broken nose, he received a bad head cut and a severely bruised leg. He will be unable to resume his duties for some time.

Mr. Henry A. Swanders, aged sixty-five, died at his home in Columbus last week, after an illness of three weeks with pneumonia. He had long suffered from dropsy. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Laura Cydrus Swanders. He was buried at Curna, Ind.

Mr. Charles Robbins, of Columbus, is not worrying about having no work, as he is still at his place in the Smith Shoe Company, where he has been employed for more than thirty years, and if the company has an honor roll his name must be one it. He owns his own home, like many other deaf folks in Columbus.

The Columbus Ladies' Aid Society had an election of officers for 1931, at their meeting December 4th. The officers now are: Mrs. Iva Lohr Cook, president; Miss Bertha Druggan, vice-president; Mrs. Goldsmith, secretary; Mrs. J. C. Winemiller, treasurer; and Mrs. Dresback and Mrs. Mayer, custodians.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Wilson (Eva Bamberg), Mrs. Hilda Brown and a few friends, all of Akron, were callers at the school last Sunday. The Wilsons' son, Richard, is attending school here. Mrs. Wilson is an Ohio girl, and Mr. Wilson was educated at the Colorado school.

Mrs. Livingston, of Richwood, is never idle. If there's no farm work for her to do, she is quilting. Quilting ten quilts in seven months is nothing to her. At present she is at work on one that is one hundred years old. It belongs to a woman, who is in her eight-eighth year.

Two Frats, who are now president and vice-president of the Columbus Division, are former pupils of mine, and I am glad to see them in positions of trust. They are Mr. Basil Grigsby, president; and Mr. William Murphy, vice-president. Both gentlemen hold offices on the board of managers of the Mission to the Deaf of Trinity Church, too.

When the Akron Frats held their smoker and initiation in November, there were nearly two hundred present, many coming from other towns to take it in.

Mrs. Philip Holdren had the scare of her life the other evening, when attacked on the street about dusk by two bandits. Fortunately, her purse was not in her handbag, and the bandits got nothing. She was on her way home from a store at the time, and had put her purse in an inner pocket, which proved a lucky thing for her.

Rev. P. J. Hasenstab, of Chicago, visited Cincinnati recently, and gave an interesting service to a crowd of ninety deaf folks in the M. E. Church. As this was the reverend's first visit to that city in fifteen years, he hardly recognized the place. He was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Watters. This M. E. Church for the Deaf was started some years ago, by a Miss Cameron, and has been a successful church. Miss Cameron was deaconess, who was quite hard of hearing. Mrs. L. LaFountain has been visiting her sister in Cincinnati, and Mrs. Albert Bender entertained with a card party honoring Mrs. LaFountain. Those present were Mrs. Weber, Mrs. A. Watters, Mrs. C. Bender, Mrs. Crews, Mrs. W. Ross and the hostess. A delightful time was had.

Mrs. Hattie Eikens has returned to her home in Stonewall, Miss., after spending several months with friends and relatives in Cincinnati. She was the guest of honor at many delightful parties while there, and will be missed by her old friends.

Mrs. Hannah Ranz Wooley, assisted by Mrs. George Williams and Mrs. C. C. Pollack, engineered a fine church supper at Christ Church for the St. Mark Mission November 22d. A fine sum was realized for the Mission.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Jacobson were week-end visitors at the latter's mother's home recently, near Cincinnati.

December 2d found Mr. Jacob Showalter, of our school, in Van Wert, O., where he was called on account of the death of a brother-in-law.

Mrs. Mary Grimes Patterson and Miss Bess Hunter, teachers, spent Thanksgiving Day in Lima.

The ladies in and near Covington, Ky., are doing their bit towards getting a Home for the Deaf in Kentucky. About twenty-four met and organized a Home Circle (similar to the Circle in Cincinnati) to work for the proposed Home. The Ohio deaf home Kentucky will soon have their Home.

The Columbus deaf are ready to honor that good man Thomas Hopkins Gallaudet, on the evening of December 10th, at a dinner. It seems to me that more attention should be given in the school to teach the children about their great benefactor, and how he brought them their sign-language.

Letters are still appearing in the Columbus papers from all parts of the State, praising the life and the work of the late Dr. J. W. Jones, and Mrs. Jones almost daily receives like letters. E.

Local Barber Outwits Pair of Bandits

Two hoodlums held up Emory Alpha Barker, a deaf-mute barber, on Armstrong Street, Chicago, on the 8th. Barker, who is employed at High's Barber Shop, left the shop around 11:30 and started down Armstrong Street to his home. As he was passing the Glaze lot, two young men stepped from the shadows of the lot and grabbed him. They searched his pockets, but only found a small amount of money. The bandits then released him and fled.

Clever barber Barker outwitted the bandits. He had placed a large amount of money inside his shirt before leaving the barber shop. They failed to discover the money concealed in his shirt.

Barker also recognized the two men and warrants were immediately sworn out for them. Police searched the town, Monday night, but were unable to apprehend them. They had been loafing about town near the barber shop. The officers arrested the bums the next day and found in their possession some of Barker's things which will be used as evidence in their trial. They were brought up before a justice of the peace on Thursday, Miss Rebecca Seaton acting as interpreter for Barker. The bums were bound over to the January term of the Mineral County Circuit Court. Each man was made to give $1,000 bond.

Barker is a former pupil of the West Virginia School for the Deaf. He had been living in Youngstown, O., for a number of years and worked in a barber shop there. He had secured a job in Keyser, W. Va., only a week before the holdup occurred. It is believed that the bandits will be dealt with severely as there are other charges against them, when their trial comes up in January.—S.

GALLAUDET COLLEGE

By Andy Mack

Pencils are wearing out, note books are smutty and students' minds are under severe strain, all because first-term examinations are here. With a four-day examination period safely hurdled, the students will be thinking of Santa Claus and the old stocking. This year Santa, in the person of the Faculty, will distribute first-term examination results to the students on Tuesday, December 23d, just a day before Santa's journey begins from the North Pole.

During the past week everyone has been grimly putting in the finishing touches to their studies. According to the amount of energy displayed in class rooms, a new low mark for failures is about to be established. Among the Preps of College Hall the oil has been burning late into night, in preparation for their baptism in College examinations.

"A grind a day, every day in every way, keeps the failures further and further away." This song from the scratchings and rustling of paper tells the attitude of the boys of College Hall. No need to tell them to grind away more, they are doing it without being told. What a delight it is for the Faculty while making their rounds to see every lad within his room, half undressed, half asleep, and half awake, pondering over a pack of notes and a pile of books, trying to make himself comfortable to finish the night's work for bed is paradise, indeed.

Gallaudet Day, December 10th, was fittingly observed with a very fine program. After classes had been shortened for the day, all students flocked to the chapel. For one of the few times in the year every student was present. Rev. Arthur D. Bryant, who studied and labored under Dr. Edward Miner Gallaudet, was the honor speaker of the day. He delivered an inspiring address dealing with the life struggles, the work and the ambition of the man in whose honor the college is named. Briefly telling the life story of the younger Gallaudet, Rev. Bryant brought the students face to face with one of the greatest benefactors of the deaf the world has ever known.

Chester Dobson proceeded with a talk on the spread of the various agencies for the deaf in this country. He explained the growth of the National Fraternal Society for the Deaf and the National Association for the Deaf. These two agencies, each different in their work, the one an insurance organization the other a protective order, have been growing steadily. Mr. Dobson stated that through these two agencies it has been possible for the deaf to make the present unemployment situation practically a negligible factor to their kind.

Miss Mae Koehn, '33, delivered a beautiful poem in tribute to Dr. Gallaudet. Her emotion, so delicately displayed, was so real and her words so reverent, that rapture held the audience. At the conclusion, the audience, headed by the Faculty, marched to the Gallaudet statue on "Queen's Highway." Between the two lines of the head Seniors, Miss Josephine Beesley and Mr. Chester Dobson reverently marched with a wreath in their hands, which they placed at the base of the bronze statue. Christmas vacation will be a period of rest for the tired students. On Christmas Eve it has been planned to have the annual Christmas Tree celebration in Fowler Hall, under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A. and the Young Men's Social Club. Following the distribution of gifts by "Santa Claus," the boys and girls are expected to attend midnight mass at the Catholic Church. This latter idea is an innovation and has not been officially decided upon.

Annually there is a competition play, the boys pitted against the girls. Without any previous practice, the boys and girls each present a play and competent judges award the decision based entirely on the merits of the play. The losers pay for an ice-cream feed. Last year the girls lost and this year they will attempt to regain their lost prestige. It is expected that the plays will be held on the 26th of this month.

Thirteen years have gone by and Professor Hughes is still grinding the crank of the moving picture projecting machine. It was Prof. Hughes who labored long, and hard to obtain a machine for the college and it was Prof. Hughes who has been running the old contraption ever since. Professor Hughes has striven to give the students a broader education by means of silent films. Friday evening, while the basketball team was playing in Philadelphia, six reels of travel film were shown.

Six reels, the equivalent of two and a half hours of entertainment depicting everyday life in the Mediterranean region. Entitled the "Cradle of Civilization," the six reels were devoted to Venice, Greece, the Bosphorus, Palestine and the Holy Land, Algeria and Egypt, the Pyramids, Sphinx, Dead Sea, Mount of Olives, the spot where Jesus Christ is supposed to rest.

famous canals of Venice, palace of the Doge, Athenian Acropolis and the castle of the Knights of Rhodes, were some of the more important views.

In the words of Prof. Hughes, "If you can't travel, you can at least read word pictures and obtain an education almost as broadening." Indeed, the students learned a lot through this film and all of this without setting foot off Kendall Green.

Just before the movies began, Mr. Doctor, the genial tour conductor of the Thanksgiving bus trip, was surprised with a gift from the students. The astonished Mr. Doctor was the recipient of a pair of heavy bronze book ends, depicting the famous statue, "The Thinker." At the present rate, Mr. Doctor will soon have to obtain an extra room in which to keep all his trophies and gifts.

Last Sunday the Sophomore Class held their Sunday School Concert. George Lynch opened the concert with a poem "Life Sculpture." Harold Larsen followed with a talk entitled "Education." Mr. Larsen attempted to bring home to the audience, that while the world is entangled over the unemployment situation, they, the audience, were safely in college with three square meals a day, a clean and warm bed to sleep in and only a pile of books separating them from a coveted sheepskin. A hymn by a duet, the Misses Mae Koehn and Florence Schornstein, was followed by the closing prayer, offered by Dr. Charles Russell Elv.

Rev. Edward Kaercher conducted Holy Communion and regular services for the deaf college students Sunday morning, at the Lutheran Church of the Atonement on North Capital and Rhode Island Avenues. All members of the Lutheran Church and many of their friends were very welcome at the afternoon services.

Last week the name of Stephen Koziar, '34, one of the promising tackles on the football team, was erroneously omitted from the playing percentages published. Koziar playing his second year on Hughes' eleven, took part in 46% of all playing time, and is expected to receive his letter. At present he is also on the Reserves basketball squad, along with Heimo Antila. Both are old members of the American School of Hartford.

From now on, Gallaudet's Blue quintet will know that performance, not praise, wins games on the floor. While they have been receiving the plaudits of John Public on a silver platter, they developed a case of "cockiness." This is only an easy way of saying that Wally Krug's boys dropped their first two games, but encountered some unlooked for opposition. Friday, against Haverford, the game was a nip and tuck affair, with the home team always in the lead. Play was evenly distributed, and miscues were few and far between. While the Blues managed to keep their fast passing attack well in advance of the opposition, Haverford countered, by slipping Logan, a guard, to the net for five counters, the last one winning the game.

Shifting the guard to forward and juggling the lineup at tense moments caught the Blue guards off balance, and before any one was aware of it, the damage had been done. Anyway, the Blues, led by Captain Cosgrove, gave a good account of their ability. Trailing 17 to 14 at the half time, they came back strong in the second half and tied the count at the third period, 20 to 20.

With Ringle and Cosgrove working overtime to keep the score even, two minutes before the end, they were deadlocked again, 29 to 29.

Another puzzle, shifting the guard to forward, Logan for Edgard, gave the Haverford lads the game. Logan sneaked in and hit the net for his fifth basket of the evening and the two points that spelled defeat for the Blues. Cosgrove grabbed high-point honors with thirteen, while Ringle and Logan tied with an even ten apiece. "Mule" Monaghan played a good game at guard. His great defensive work kept the score pruned down to such an extent that the Blues were always serious contenders for honors.

The loss of Jimmy Rayhill, flashy Prep forward, was a hard blow to the Blues' hopes for victory. Rayhill, a slightly-built lad, suffered a sprained ankle in practice scrimmage earlier in the week, and will not be able to play for some time. Taking their second defeat in as many starts, the Blues played to a capacity crowd at Curtis Gymnasium at Drexel Institute, Saturday night, losing 36 to 30.

In a heart-breaking struggle, Wally Krug's boys found they were playing against a team of high-class caliber. Although Captain Del Cosgrove led the field with seventeen markers, the Dragons had a worthy counterpart in Johnson, who amassed fourteen digits. Trailing behind at the start, the Blues kept fighting to the end and succeeded within six points of tying the score.

At half time, Drexel led 17 to 14, but ran up its score to 34 digits with but seven minutes to go.

Led by "Rabbit" Ringle and Del Cosgrove, the Blues started on a scoring rampage, running up thirteen consecutive points while holding the Dragons to a lone "birdie." Apparently within an ace of losing the game, the Dragons proceeded to "freeze" the ball. Despite all attempts of the Blues to put the ball into play, the game was stalled and their rally just fell short of succeeding.

Drexel experienced the most difficulty of any game played this season. This was its third consecutive win.

Again the guarding of "Mule" Monaghan, teamed up with Jack Wurdemann, seemed to be the combination Wally Krug has been seeking. This pair, tall, rangy and aggressive, kept the score down, and but for the equally fine defensive work of the Dragon guards, might have been the deciding factor in a Gallaudet triumph.

Ringle's lanky frame, with his long outstretched arms, served to hamper the Dragon passing attack to a great extent. Playing on a court slightly smaller than regulation size, the Blues were at advantage when their "telephone pole" tactics are considered.

During the first-term examination period, the Blues will be idle. They will meet Southeastern University, of Washington, on the Kendall Green floor on Saturday, December 27th, at 3 p.m. Maybe Santa Claus will be kind and give the Blues a belated Christmas present in the form of a victory.

Deaf Workers and Accident Liability

Mrs. Petra F. Howard, Chief of the Division for the Deaf in the State Commission of Labor and Industries, has called to our attention a fact that should prove favorable to the employment of deaf workers. The records of the Commission show that during the biennial period there was but one case of an accident to a deaf worker calling for compensation. The official who compiles the statistics called Mrs. Howard's attention to this matter, and he said that among hearing workers the ratio is one injury to every twenty-five workers. Considering that there are some hundreds of deaf workers throughout the state in various occupations, the showing is remarkable. Of course, allowance must be made for the fact that the deaf are not employed in certain extra-hazardous vocations, but even so the ratio is extremely low. There is a reason. From childhood the deaf are habituated to direct their actions and guard against danger by eyesight alone; therefore they are naturally more watchful of surrounding conditions than hearing people are. Deaf workers keep their eyes on the jobs, and their attention is not diverted by unexpected or unusual sounds around them. We think that the above fact, which has official backing, may be used to advantage in convincing doubting employers of labor that they assume no extra liability if they give employment to deaf workers.—Minnesota Companion.

BUFFALO HOOFPRIENTS

By J. FREDERICK MEAGHER

INSTALLMENT XI

Some one of our clan says Buffalo's NAD convention will go down to fame as "the good-time convention"—since only once was any platform move actively debated. A good-time was certainly enjoyed; but I fail to see where the welfare of civilization depended on long and bitter wrangling between tweedledum and tweedledee.

LOCAL COMMITTEE ACE-HIGH

That splendid local committee surprised us with a wonderful program—for there was not a single national celebrity on its roster. No Veditz, no Marshall, no Davis, no Cloud. They pulled together like a team, and made up in results what they lacked in previous fame.

Several of them performed under difficulties. Bill Haenzel—financial secretary and in charge of program—was particularly distraught, as his wife was very ill. Those folks put on a jim-dandy program in jim-dandy style, and all they got for it was a few lines of thanks in the resolutions.

TIME'S HEAVY HAND

One bad thing about conventions is you have not time to properly renew old friendships. I had one-time bosom-pals like the Seelys, Smiths, Schwaglers, Erbs, Weils, who had to go with a few polite words and a snatched handshake. If you were not busy, they were.

LIFE'S MARATHON

Many who once ran far ahead of you in life's marathon, were now found far behind. Others, remembered as tiny tots, have hurdled the years to keep pace with the leaders. For example, there was Mrs. William Renner, wife of the assistant editor of the JOURNAL, last seen as Cecelia Wilson, a pupil from Alaska, when I taught in the Washington State school. She was a chubby papoose then, knee-high to a grasshopper, and would look way up into my face like a worshipping Esquimaux regarding his favorite Totem pole. What a change today: sleek, poised, beamingly beautiful, and—worst of all—instead of looking way UP into my face, she now looks way DOWN.

"OUR LITTLE NELL"

Remember Nellie Gillespie, hearing daughter of deaf parents, who was "Little Mother of the Mutes" to us war-workers at Goodyear? She is now "social worker" at the Ohio school—still as plump, pleasant and wholesome as ever.

GAILLARD'S THIRD TRIP

This was the third American trip of Monsieur Henri Gaillard, "the Gibson of France." He first came to attend Chicago's NAD convention during the 1893 World Columbian Exposition. Gaillard's second crossing of the Atlantic was to attend the 1917 NAD, commemorating the one hundredth anniversary of establishment of the first American school for the deaf, at Hartford, Ct.

That reminds me: They say the late Anson R. Spear, of Minneapolis, was mistaken for a visiting Frenchman at the Hartford convention, because of his Van Dyke, was warmly kissed by scores of pretty girls, aflame with America's entry into the World War in the cause of La Belle France. Between us, I don't believe the good Spear was a bit displeased at this. In fact, judging from my own reactions when pretty girls kiss me—er—I mean IF pretty girls should ever kiss me—I'm sure of it. (And if my wife sees this, I'm only fooling.)

MAN MOUNTAINS

Big Bob Conley, amateur heavy-weight wrestling champion of the District of Columbia, while attending Gaillardet College, reminded me I gave him his first wrestling lesson. He happened to be the biggest pupil in the Rome school when I visited it in 1903, and complied with Superintendent Edward Clark's request to give a lecture and physical culture demonstration before the pupils assembled in the chapel. To prove brain beats brawn—I was then a crack 115-pound wrestler, though not a national champion—I took the 180-pound Conley and humiliated him by mopping up the stage with the green kid. Right then and there, he resolved to learn the game and get revenge. This was our first meeting since that eventful day twenty-two years ago, and Conley's eyes gleam with unholy glee as he earnestly challenges me to a practice match.

Me wrestle him? Huh; I'd as soon tackle a locomotive.

Troy Hill tells the group that I also had the luck to give his first football lessons to Dewey Deer, greatest fullback in Gaillardet history, when Dewey was fourteen. Hill opines there must be something spooky about it all, as no such meager half-pint could ever handle man-mountains like Conley and Deer.

Hum. Other times, other customs. These days (whisper it, sonny) these these days I can't even manage my own wife!

TEACHER AND FRIEND

Talking about looks being deceptive: One charming young creature

introduced me to the dapper and debonair Clayton McLoughlin, of Rochester, with the proud mien of one who is doing a great favor. "Oh, I've met McLoughlin," I retorted; "As my math. instructor, he started me on the road as the first deaf man who ever won a National Athletic championship, many years ago."

The young lady gazes incredulously at my bombastic, conceited little self, and at the quiet, unassuming McLoughlin—a former University of Rochester athlete; then, realizing it must be gospel truth, regards him with sudden new respect.

CABBAGES AND KINGS

Elmer P. Davis, of Buffalo, had a three-verse poem in "Everybody's Column" of the News, August 7th, entitled: "Silents, Buffalo Greets You."

"Welcome N. A. D." signs were in the windows of most stores and restaurants—a good idea originated at Denver.

The most earnest and willing and agreeable politician on deck was Max Lubin, of New York. He combs near the Gib type of true self-sacrifice and genuine interest in our less-intelligent brothers, than about any man I met there.

Only four present students of Gaillardet were on deck, although most of the leaders, at the founding fifty years ago, were then students.

STATLER'S SUPERB SERVICE

A Mrs. Teeple, mail supervisor of the Hotel Statler, displayed much helpful interest in us.

Inquiry revealed that Mrs. Albert V. Ballin is her aunt. This Ballin, a deaf-mute is an "extra" around Hollywood movie studios; and Laura LaPlante has given him great aid in raising funds to publish his forthcoming volume, "The Deaf-Mute Howls."

The Statler management treated its silent guests with every consideration. There was a bill of $6.00 for a blanket burnt by a flation presented Jennie Reid—a Chicago working-girl, styled by some "the cutest little kiddie of them all." Jennie took her wbes to Charlotte Schwager, who thereon deurely used her influence with the management to get that $6.50 charged to "upkeep." This haughty, scornful Charlotte was a puppy-love ideal of my distant school-days, and—considering the magnificent Christian character she shows—it would seem I had very good judgment. I always did show remarkably good judgment—a picking out my lady friends, or "poetic inspirati." Unfortunately, adies do not show the same good judgment in regards to me.

TOY DRESDEN-DOLL

That title of "cutest little kiddie," I would apply to Irene J. Schifino, aged twenty-one, Pittsburgh correspondent of the American Deaf Citizen. Built like a toy Dresden-doll—even I could look clean over her head; pleasant as plum-pudding and smart as a whip, her sunny smile and jolly chatter makes a guy forget he is old and ugly.

BEG PARDON DEPT.

Installment XIII gave the weight of that sixteen-year-old beauty winner—Addie Jones, of Ohio—as one hundred and eighty-eight pounds. It should have read one hundred and eighteen. You know how absent-minded some printer-kids get as the clock nears the magic hour of four these football days. That type-toying boy-wonder was probably day-dreaming of the touchdowns he would make if he weighed one hundred and eighty-eight.

But, to my dying day, I'll never be able to look that Columbus blonde in the eye without a guilty feeling.

A REAL GIVEAWAY

As homeward I lead my tired happy band, a giveaway on my appreciation of Buffalo is the fact that for once—everybody thoroughly enjoys a return journey, instead of grouching in disillusionment. It was a long, hot night in town—but cool and comfortable for us aboard the Detroit steamer, "rocked in the cradle of the deep." Some say Troy Hill took his bag of golf clubs to bed with him, he was so happy.

They say one silent stepped up to a Detroit newstand, looked it over, then picked a paper and walked away without paying. The newsboy caught him half a block down and an animated argument ensued. The silent pointed to the name of the sheet, Detroit Free Press, emphasizing the word "Free."

ALAH! ANOTHER BELIEVER!

On the luxurious Premier bus from Detroit to Chicago, a sedate and dignified hearing dowager gazed on us finger-wavers with ill-concealed scorn. Probably regarded us as semi-barbarians. Indulging her in conversation, I used one instance to set us right:

"Most of us are either artisans or common laborers," I wrote her. "Our value to civilization lies in our admitted ability to rear successful offspring. For example, look at Thomas Pekins, here. It is their first real vacation in nearly fifty years. Pekins is a grave-digger, who has toiled all his life for seven children—all possessed of perfect hearing. Three of his daughters are school teachers. One daughter has a responsible job with Western Union."

The remaining daughter is a phone operator. One of his sons is manager of a large garage and sales-agency in Blue Island. The youngest son is nearly through as a hospital interne, and will soon hang up his shingle as physician-surgeon. Seven kids; battling average one thousand as worthy citizens. The same goes for the rest of us. We may look strange to your eyes—as you may look somewhat strange to us—but at heart we are all true Americans."

The dignified dowager never said a word. But in her eyes was a gleam of real respect.

MISHAPS IN RETURNING

Returning in their car on the 9th, the Horace Perrys, of Chicago, saw two women who lay badly injured in an auto wrck at Jonesville, Mich. A large surrounding crowd stood by, shocked and helpless. Taking the injured in their car, the Perrys rushed them to a hospital. For this, the Jonesville Independent of the 14th lauded the deaf as Good Samaritans in a three-col. article. Perry got his clothes well blood-soaked, lifting one two hundred-pound lady into his car.

Of all our Bisonville bunch, old John Jones was the first to die, dropping dead in Akron the Monday following the convention. Yes, Good-year's war-time "Old John Jones," that roaring, rip-snorling advocate of "fair-play fraternity" who's fiery flair for fairness is now copied by hundreds of far-flung fraters all over the nation.

MY SWAN SONG

For over a decade, I have been covering most of our big conventions for the daily papers, and for one or more of the national publications of Silentdom, free, gratis, and without charge. All I ever got for it was ten dollars from a St. Paul daily and a pennant from Denver division.

Now we go to conventions for a vacation, a good time—and writing-up a convention is not this writer's idea of a "vacation" at his own expense. A long and lauding series on one convention is good propaganda for the next, so Editor Hodgson's banquet-statement that "our progress was due to the press," holds a world of truth.

In the meager spare-time it has taken to write these eleven installments of Buffalo Hoofprints, I might have earned several hundred dollars writing stories for hearing magazines.

So my old home-town of Buffalo—the city where I covered my first convention for the dailies just twenty-two years ago (and on the exact site of the Statler today) dear old Buffalo sees my last free role. Hereafter, all convention and kindred writing will be on contract, or for cash-in-advance. As our silent convention committees seem several million miles from realizing the value of a publicity man, guess that means good-bye and good-luck, friend reader.

GOOD-BYE!

Our three-thousand Bison have passed in thundering herd, and their hoofprints—growing gradually fainter—are now obliterated forever by the swirling snows of winter.
